PAMS Supports Multi-Service Prepaid

Dallas, TX, Tuesday, July 15, 2008:

Exceleron Software announced today that their Prepaid Account Management System now provides prepaid support for multiple services. This new functionality allows utilities to offer a prepaid option to customers who may have two or more services such as water, electric and gas. Offering prepaid as an alternative to monthly billing has been proven successful over the past few years in other industries and most recently in the electric provider industry. As advanced metering technology continues to expand into other service such as water and gas, the ability to provide the end user with daily usage information creates a perfect environment for prepaid. The concept is essentially the same as other prepaid services. The consumer makes payments throughout the month as needed to maintain a credit balance. If the balance drops below zero, an alert is sent to warn of pending disconnection/shutoff. If a payment is not posted in the allotted time, a disconnect occurs and the consumer is notified of the amount required to reestablish service. In most cases, the consumer will make a payment to avoid disconnection. Prepaid customers receive a daily usage alert which allows them to monitor their consumption and control their overall utility costs which often results in a 10-15% savings.
